Online ABS Accredited Lithium-Ion Battery Safety Awareness and Command & Control Course for Superyachts

Safety awareness of lithium-ion batteries on yachts is vital for yacht crew, shoreside managers, and anyone overseeing vessels with battery-powered tenders, toys, or equipment. This fully online course features eight focused modules that explore battery electrochemistry, hazards, and proven risk-prevention strategies. Emphasising prevention over intervention, it delivers practical best practices to keep your yacht safe. This course has been developed in partnership with Seascope France.

The Command and Control Module to the Online Lithium-Ion Battery Safety Awareness for Superyachts examines the subject from the perspective of the shipboard command team, looking at shipboard emergency organisation, drills and training, decision-making tools, crew resource management and post-incident control. Designed to be thought-provoking and to provide participants with the skills required to enhance Li-Ion incident response on their own vessels.

Online Awareness of First Aid for Mental Health Courses for the Crew & Staff of Luxury Yachts

The Awareness of First Aid for Mental Health courses are fully online training programmes designed to increase awareness of mental health issues.

They aim to help learners identify symptoms in themselves and others and outlines the necessary steps to support those in need while improving the overall working environment.

The course teaches how to recognise the signs and symptoms of mental ill health, provide basic first aid support, and determine when to escalate care or seek professional help.

They also addresses the identification of drug or alcohol misuse, and offers guidance on creating a supportive, inclusive workplace that fosters openness, rather than fear and stress.
